What should I do if I think I have COVID-19?

Please stay home and call your primary health care provider or your IU campus health center if, in the past 14 days, you:

* Have a new cough, fever, shortness of breath, sore throat, vomiting, diarrhea, or muscle aches. The CDC recently added symptoms to watch for that may come with the disease: chills, repeated shaking with chills, muscle pain, headache, sore throat, and new loss of taste or smell. When you call, please inform your primary health care provider or campus health center of your symptoms and recent travel or potential exposure before going to the health facility.

What should I do if I have COVID-19?

If you test positive or are diagnosed with COVID-19 by your care provider, stay home and follow their instructions for isolation, inform your supervisor or department of the diagnosis, as well as any of your close contacts. (Close contacts are people you have been within six feet of for several minutes while you were sick, or in the 48 hours before you were sick.) Close contacts should then self-quarantine for 14 days and monitor their health.

Reporting confirmed or suspected COVID-19 cases

The following are Preliminary Guidelines from PSIA – a formal announcement is expected soon

Anyone who tests positive, becomes symptomatic, and/or has a possible exposure should report to avppsia@iu.edu . EHS members will be monitoring this email closely from 9am-7pm every day.

The affected person should also use the IU Virtual Screening app. Lastly, they also need to fill out this form: <https://psia-fireform.eas.iu.edu/online/form/index/007>. Reporting via email and filling out that form can be done by the individual or by a supervisor on behalf of the individual.

Once PSIA is aware of someone's situation, be they a confirmed positive or not, they will directly reach out to them. PSIA will ask people where they have been in the last 72 hours (the maximum amount of time that studies are showing the virus can live on surfaces).

PSIA will issue appropriate guidance and conduct contact/location tracing for the relevant period (48 hours before becoming symptomatic). PSIA will issue exposure notifications to relevant people who they deem close contacts after speaking to the individual. Please do not disclose someone's medical status to others.
